

Contents

Foreword	v
Foreword to the French edition	vii
Preface	ix
1 His youth: A string of accomplishments (1871–1900)	1
Childhood, early training, and first achievements . . . . .	1
Paris: Entrance exams, École Normale Supérieure, military service . . . . .	2
Beginnings of a university career . . . . .	8
2 The rise of a scientist (1900–1914)	11
Scientific and pedagogical bloom . . . . .	11
Married life begins: The Borel–Appell union . . . . .	17
New administrative duties and a foreign mission . . . . .	20
A penchant for the concrete: Novel scientific and technical approaches . . . . .	25
3 The Great War and the return to peace (1914–1924)	31
The draft: The front and the Ministry of Defense . . . . .	31
The death of Fernand Lebeau . . . . .	34
Postwar years: New scientific and international activities . . .	34
4 From science to politics (1924–1940)	41
The beginnings of a parliamentary career . . . . .	41
The Ministry of the Navy and the Naval budget . . . . .	46

Life as a member of parliament: His three terms between the two wars . . . . .	48
Mayor and councillor . . . . .	51
5 Scientific activity between the two wars (1925–1940)	55
The early years of the Institut Henri Poincaré . . . . .	55
University life at the Sorbonne . . . . .	57
Two presidencies: Académie des Sciences and the Institut . .	61
The scientific jubilee: Fifty years of research and teaching . .	64
6 A long and final march towards the future (1940–1956)	67
Dark years under occupation and new hopes . . . . .	67
Post-war period, c. 1950s: Promoting science outreach . . . .	71
Reflections on current affairs: Secret gardens . . . . .	76
The final years: Farewell from his hometown . . . . .	82
Supplement to the English edition	85
On the foundations of mathematical analysis from Borel to Bourbaki by Pierre Dugac . . . . .	85
Appendix	95
Closing remarks and further reading . . . . .	96
Summary of Borel’s scientific career and public life . . . . .	98
Awards, honorary titles and honorary memberships . . . . .	100
Quotes and anecdotes . . . . .	103
Acknowledgments . . . . .	106